Asian American Federation celebrated its 23rd anniversary at its annual Spirit of Asian America Gala on May 3rd at The Pierre in Manhattan. Hundreds of guests from all sectors attended.

This year, the Federation honored: David L. Cohen (Executive Vice President of Comcast Corporation), SungEun Han-Andersen (President of The G. Chris Andersen Family Foundation), Khee Lee (Head of Agency Business Development of Google New York), and Anderson Cooper (Host and Executive Producer of "Anderson"). The awards were presented by Don Liu (Senior Vice President, General Counsel & Secretary of Xerox Corporation), Kenneth Yip, PhD (Founder & CEO of Investor Science Group), David Chang (Chef & Owner of Momofuku Restaurants), and Dennis Swanson (President of Station Operations of FOX Television Stations Group). The two co-emcees were Christina Park (Anchor of WNYW/Fox 5) and Pei-Sze Cheng (Reporter of NBC4 New York).

The Executive Director of Federation, Cao K. O said, "The Federation could never get to this point without the support from partners, sponsors and friends of all sectors during the past 23 years. With more and more new members joining the Federation and more and more friends supporting our mission, the Federation will better serve our communities in the future."
